The American College of Surgeons is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The American College of Surgeons designates this educational activity for a maximum of 19 *AMA PRA Category 1 Credits*TM. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation to the activity.

Approved by the American College of Emergency Physicians for up to 19 Category 1 credits (1 hour = 1 credit).

A document verifying your successful completion of the ATLS® Course will be sent to you. This document and your ATLS® status are valid for 4 years from the date of issue. The date of expiration is included on the successful course completion document. If you relocate during this 4-year period, please contact the American College of Surgeons (ACS) office with your change of address.

If you wish to maintain a current status in the ACS ATLS® Program, you are encouraged to reverify your status every 4 years by participating in an ATLS® Student Refresher Course.

You have up to 6 months after your status expires to complete this process. If you have not completed the process within this time frame, you will need to take the ATLS® Student Course again, in its entirety. A complete listing of courses is available on the College's ATLS® Web site at <http://www.facs.org/trauma/atls/index.html>.
